GUIDELINES FOR ATTENDING ONLINE CLASSES

When the classes are held online, you need to keep a few things in mind for the success of these classes.

While attending online counselling sessions, you should take care of the following:

- Go through the self-learning materials of the relevant courses before you decide to attend the online counselling sessions. If you have not received the hard copies of the materials, you can download the digital materials from e-Gyankosh, IGNOU Student App or IGNOU E-Content App. Please visit the website of the Regional Centre or Learner Support Centre for schedules of such online classes. You will be informed about the online classes in advance either by the Regional Centre or the Learner Support Centre.
- Get logged in for the class within five minutes from the scheduled time. Keep yourself free from all other assignments or works during the session.
- Dress yourself properly before you get logged in for the class. In no case, you should open the video if you are not properly dressed. You should be in front of the camera when you have kept the video on and should avoid moving in front of the camera when the video is on. It disturbs the teacher as well as other students.
- Mute your microphone unless you are asked to speak. The sound coming from your speaker or from your environment will disturb others.
- Maintain a minimum level of formality when you present yourself before the camera or speak before the online audience. Use clear and concise language when you speak.
- Treat your instructor and classmates with respect in email, chat or any other form of direct communication. Be polite, kind and respectful when you address your teachers or friends.
- Use the chat box as a learning tool. You should use it to share your ideas, ask questions or clarify doubts in regard to the topic being discussed in the class.
- Clarify all your subject related queries to the concern Academic Counselor during the session.
- Submit the hard copy of the practical manual to the study centre (Jaya college of arts and science, Chennai) on or before May 31th 2023.
